Our Town

By Peggy Blanchard

Betty Allen, former editor of The Campbell Press, sends this first-hand description of the Oregon flood from up in Portland where she, Martin and Denny now live. (Thanks, Betty—so glad you were an onlooker from a part of Portland not involved in the disaster.)

"Dear Peggy:—
"I feel that I should be able to tell you some harrowing tale of the flood but as a matter of fact we are miles from it and it wasn't until a few days ago, when the area was reopened, that I was able to see it.

None of the pictures or stories prepare you for the unbelievable devastation of it and it is amazing that the thousands of people who have lost everything can be as philosophical as they are about it. I guess they are still too stunned at being alive to feel anything but relief.

It was encouraging to see the complete breaking down of racial barriers which accompanied the Red Cross work immediately following the Vanport flood and it may have some long-reaching effects.

Immediate needs seem well taken care of but the problem is going to be a long-term one and one of the local columnists has made a prophecy that the Portland Meadows race track will be rebuilt before a single housing unit is up. It will be interesting to see what happens. . . .

I feel as though I shall need a guide when I visit Campbell, there seem to be so many new buildings and businesses. We enjoy the paper immensely and scan it for news each week of our many friends.

Best regards from all of us,
BETTY ALLEN

★ Joe Gomes, Ethan Lanphear and Bill Herley umpired that big Kiwanis-Rotary baseball game Friday night; best obtainable estimates of the final score gave Kiwanis 15 to Rotary's 14 runs. Special reporter Ray Fish side-stepped the score -- maybe I should, too.

★ Bob Allinger Jr. gave us the story on Midget auto racing in last week's paper. Bob hopes to be a sports reporter when he grows up (he is nearly six feet tall now) and is getting off to a fine start by working at what he likes while he learns newspapers. He already speaks the sports "lingo," having been brought up on it.

County Asked for Play Program to Combat Delinquency with Fun

Some $78,750 for a county play program was requested of Santa Clara County Board of Supervisors Monday by county school and recreational leaders. They asked for the formation of a County Recreation Commission to combat delinquency by providing wholesome vacation and after-school supervision of leisure time.

The board took the matter under advisement after an hour's presentation of the case by recreational and school authorities and PTA members. Principal Thomas P. Ryan of Alum Rock Union School, leader of the group, declared that any cost involved was minor compared to the large sums required for rehabilitation of youths who become delinquent through lack of adequate recreational facilities.

The cost estimate was made by Recreation Director Arthur Tindall of Campbell, based upon a per capita levy of 45 cents upon the County's population.

Opposition was voiced by William Ward of the Hunter ranch, pear grower, who said that building up rural areas fringing cities should annex to these cities and share in municipal recreation programs, rather than asking the County to raise its taxes for such purposes. "Such increases in taxes will overburden the farmers, who are already suffering from higher taxes and higher costs," Ward said. He suggested that the supervisors investigate some alternative way of raising money, such as a County sales tax, if the recreation program is instituted.

Ryan's proposal was that the school districts supply the physical plants for the recreation centers, while the County pay for personnel and other operational costs.

Among those attending was Carson Conrad, recreation consultant of the State Department (Continued on page 8)

Postman Celebrates 32nd Anniversary On State's Oldest Rural Mail Route

Wednesday was a "red-letter" day for Daniel A. Yeager, postman on California's oldest rural delivery route which is Campbell Rte. 1.

At 3, Wednesday afternoon, he completed 32 years of service with the U. S. Mail—28 years of it as carrier on route 1. He entered the postal service June 30, 1916, and delivered mail in San Jose and Almaden until he transferred to the Campbell route Jan. 1, 1920. At that time, route 1 was the only delivery service here—other folks got their mail at the Post Office window or from a post office box.

There were 389 boxes along the 29-mile route—a number that grew to 971 boxes before the route was divided on Feb. 21, 1942.

An auxiliary route established Feb. 23, 1942, has now grown to be route 2, Campbell, and in April of 1946 rural delivery here was again reorganized and the mounted and town foot-carrier delivery added.

By June 6 of this year, Campbell's growing population made another revision of routes imperative and two more carriers were added to the post office staff.

Route 1, set up as an experiment in California in 1897, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last year. Mr. Yeager has served in the tradition of America's famous R.F.D. system along its winding roads and lanes for more than a quarter century—in fog and sunshine, between the rows of blossoms, at harvest time, in drought and flood.

Apparently, route 1 agrees with him. At 53 he's still young and friendly and wrapped up in his job.

Tutored by Jack Haynes of San Jose, the father of rural-delivery tradition in the West and one of the founders of the National Rural Letter Carriers Association, Yeager followed in his mentor's footsteps and has been an officer of California Rural Carriers Association and of the local association since 1920.

This week he is general chairman of his fourth convention. He is in charge of the state meeting of CRLC in San Jose Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. In former years he was chairman of state and national conventions and was delegate to national sessions at Savannah, Ga., Los Angeles and Portland.

Cel Gervais, manager-captain, will pitch for Rotary club.

BULLETIN:

The powerful Odd Fellows nine issued a challenge Tuesday to the Rotary baseball team for a game at 6:30 p.m. Friday on Campbell Grammar School grounds.

It's rumored the Odd Fellows want to sharpen their game at the expense of the Rotarians, who are wildcatting in the Twilight League. Even though the IOOF may be soundly trounced, it would not go against them in league standings.

Cel Gervais, manager-captain, will pitch for Rotary club.

Campbell Men Enlist in Navy

Enlisted in the U. S. Navy June 26 at the Navy Recruiting Station, San Jose, are:

Robert G. Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Williamson, 156 Sunnyside avenue, Campbell.

Duane Malone, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Malone, 133 E. Kennedy avenue, Campbell.

Both men enlisted as airmen recruits under the high school graduate training program. After completing recruit training, they will be sent to aviation fundamental school at Memphis, Tennessee.

Freeholder's Bid For Suggestions on County Charter

Leaders of the Citizens Charter Movement have asked that persons who wish to make suggestions about the content of the charter to write to the chairman, Fred A. Wickett, Board of Freeholders, Civic Auditorium, San Jose.

Wickett said this morning that the opportunity to write suggestions is prompted by a desire of the freeholders to have a representative document.

He pointed out that six major committees already have been set up by the Freeholders and will proceed immediately with their specialized work.

"If desired, written suggestions concerning single phases of the charter may be mailed directly to the committee concerned or to any of its members," Wickett added.

Committees Named

The committees, to be augmented by others, are:

Legislative and Administrative Principles: Mrs. Margaret B. Connor, chairman; Cecil L. Carlyle, Paul T. Gallagher, Harry G. Mitchell and Aaron Richards.

Finance: A. J. Price, chairman; Harry G. Mitchell, Peter J. Pa-setta, Richards and Allan M. Standish.

Health, Welfare and Recreation: Dr. Bertha S. Mason, chairman; Raymond J. Fisher, Charles S. Gubser, William L. Whidden and Wickett.

Historic Building Comes to Life

One of the Mother Lode's most historic landmarks—an iron shuttered stone building erected in 1854—will form the principal backdrop for an out-of-doors pageant to be presented in Mokelumne Hill Saturday, July 3.

The pageant is part of a three-day Mokelumne Hill Fourth of July Centennial celebration being co-sponsored by the California Centennials Commission.

The historic building, which will play "itself" in the pageant, was once used as a Wells Fargo Express office and home of the "Calaveras Chronicle," one of the first newspapers to be printed following the gold rush.

Garcia-DeBree Rites Are Solemnized In Campbell Methodist Church

Bethuel L. Garcia claimed Miss Yvonne Marie DeBree as his bride Sunday afternoon, June 27, in a ceremony at Campbell Methodist church attended by some 200 wedding guests.

Rev. Lawrence J. Osborne, pastor of the church, officiated at the service.

The young couple met while the bridegroom was on duty with the American Armed Forces in Europe and their engagement was announced by Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeBree of Brussels, Belgium, parents of the bride, before Bethuel returned from the military service two years ago.

After many official delays, the bride arrived in Campbell June 8 and wedding plans were completed.

The couple are now at home on South First street.

For her marriage, the bride wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. Her headdress was a heart-shaped coronet and she carried an orchid and bouvardia bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hubene of Santa Cruz who were former neighbors of her family in Brussels, served in stead of her parents and Mr. Hubene gave her away.

Miss Beulah Garcia, sister of the bridegroom, was her maid of honor and was gowned in deep orchid for the occasion. Mrs. Helen Garcia, in pastel green, and Mrs. Elaine Sawyer, in pale rose color, were bridesmaids. The three attendants carried arrangements of marguerite daisies.

Mr. Garcia, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Garcia of Central avenue, was attended by his brother Beryl, best man, Robert Garcia, Marvin McCorkle and Donald Rice, ushers.

Mrs. Edith Van Rossem, organist and Mrs. Reba Chappell, vocalist, provided the wedding music.

Mrs. Garcia, mother of the bridegroom, dressed in a pin-striped black corded silk and Mrs. Hubene wore a dark-background print. Their flowers were corsages of American Beauty roses.

A reception of the wedding guests was held in Country Woman's clubhouse, where a tiered cake was served as the couple received congratulations and good wishes of family friends.

Hospitality Stiffens

WASHINGTON—For two years the agriculture department has been trying to crack the "iron curtain" and inspect a Russian project that might teach us new lessons in how to conquer the southwest's great "dust bowl." But repeated appeals for a look-see have been turned down by the Russians. As a result, the agriculture department now will stiffen its own hospitality toward Russian agriculture missions.

The Russian project is a scientific "shelter belt," planted with trees to save the soil from erosion. Reportedly it was started more than 50 years ago, but American soil experts didn't learn of it until after the war. By visiting it, they hoped to learn new methods for controlling the restless topsoil in our own southwest.

Despite Soviet secrecy, however, the agriculture department so far has turned the other cheek and shown Russian experts all aspects of American agriculture, even though the Russians always carried cameras and asked exhaustive questions.

For example, a Russian mission inspecting the forest product laboratories at Madison, Wis., wanted to know the cubic measurements of each building, how many people each would hold and intricate details about the equipment.

Also the Soviet embassy always sent more people than stipulated, such as a recent mission to Oregon State college. Arrangements were requested for two, but five showed up and stayed on until they wore out their welcome.

From now on, U. S. hospitality, if at all, will be frigid.

Mysterious Delay

There is a big hole on the east side of New York City where the United Nations headquarters some day are supposed to be. Meanwhile, a mysterious delay has developed and some say it leads directly to the White House.

One White House caller even came away reporting that the president favors moving the United Nations over to Geneva—despite the prodigious efforts of Americans to bring the United Nations to the U. S. The president complained that too many U. N. pressure groups have been bothering him.

Meanwhile, a hush-hush meeting took place on Long Island the other day. Net result was a decision that each member of the United Nations would pay up a proportion of the cost for the new buildings. Meanwhile, since the United Nations has no immediate cash on hand, a loan of 68 million dollars will be necessary from Uncle Sam, to be liquidated out of annual U. N. income.

Matter of Timing

Wives of Republican congressmen are hopping mad at Mrs. Truman. The First Lady scheduled the White House reception for congressmen on February 10, the very same day that most Republican congressmen were out making Lincoln day speeches. G.O.P. wives hint that Mrs. Truman wants to prevent the Republicans from getting a preview of the White House so many of them hope to occupy next year.

Feudin' and Fightin'

FDR's running feud with Capitol Hill Democrats is a well-known story, but with Harry Truman it was expected to be different. After all, he had served in the U. S. senate, and once, as president, even resumed his old seat on the floor of the senate; sometimes goes to lunch with senate Democrats in the private office of Leslie Biffle.

Today, however, Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill are just as sore at their old pal, Harry Truman, as they were at Roosevelt—possibly more so. What Alben Barkley and ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn say about their chief in the White House can't be printed in a family newspaper.

They were especially indignant at the way he handled the attempt to fire Marriner Eccles, replacing him with dyed-in-the-wool Republican Tom McCabe. They also were burnt up at the way Mr. Truman ousted James Landis from civil aeronautics.

Finally they are not at all happy

U.N. Facts and Faces SAUDI ARABIA

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is the site of Islam's two most important shrines—Mecca (the capital) and Medina, both closely associated with the life of the Prophet Muhammed. These two highly developed cities are surrounded by the arid Arabian desert in which many of Saudi Arabia's 6,000,000 people live as farmers and herdsmen. Saudi Arabia's 350,000 square miles have recently taken on new world importance with the discovery of large oil reserves, which are now producing 300,000 barrels daily. Head of Saudi Arabia's delegation to the U.N. General Assembly has been H.R.H. Prince Faisal Al Saud, Foreign Affairs Minister. Her flag is green, carrying a sword and Islam's precept, "No Deity but God and Muhammed is his Prophet."

over the present tax battle and the fact that they have to go down the line for what they call "Truman's screwball tax plan" to reduce everybody's taxes by $40.

G.I.'s Best Friend

Kindly Gen. Omar Bradley, known as the G.I.'s best friend, had a birthday anniversary recently. He was 54.

As Bradley just had been made chief of staff, top brass of the Pentagon building were in something of a twitter as to who would be invited to the general's birthday party.

As time of the party arrived, the mystery was easily solved. Those invited were the clerks, secretaries and enlisted men who worked in Bradley's office. None of the brass hats was present except for one man—Bradley's old friend, General Eisenhower.

Troop 31 Holds Four-Day Camp

Saturday, June 19, Boy Scout Troop 31 of Campbell went to Stuart's Scout Camp for a four-day camping trip. Scouts participating were Noel Whaley, Gerald Gillum, Bill Pymale, Daniel Martin, Leon Maddin, Tom Gillum, Joe Parasack, Clifford Smith, Eugene Vargas, Jay Martin and Scoutmaster Lawrence Cowper.

Besides learning rope splicing and lashing, the troop constructed a 25-foot signal tower with the use of only logs and ropes. While in camp the troop lived in teepees which were constructed by the troop members. The program was rounded out with instruction by Frank Olson, Scout executive, in craft work and the use of native materials. Ken Robinson, director of the camp, held work in nature and pioneering.

All living expenses are paid while in the Navy.

Work Will Start on New College Plans

Funds have been made available for the initial work in planning a new college of liberal arts on the Riverside campus of the University of California, in connection with its Citrus Experiment Station there. Word has been received by Dean C. B. Hutchison, dean of the College of Agriculture, that $50,000 has been approved by the State Public Works Board for preliminary plans for the new college, and an additional $50,000 for expansion of the heating plant and utilities distribution system. For development of a similar college at Davis, $50,000 also was released.

One million dollars was provided by the Legislature and Governor Earl Warren for the preliminary work in establishing colleges of liberal arts in connection with the College of Agriculture, both at Riverside and at Davis. This money will be used in campus planning and in the development of buildings to be erected under the program to be adopted. This action of the Public Works Board is the first to make part of these funds available.

Waterhouse Given 4-H Club Award

W. G. Waterhouse, assistant state leader of Young Extension Co-operators for the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, was awarded a gold medal for long and loyal service in 4-H Club work recently. The medal was given by the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, according to word received at the University, on the final day of the annual National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C. He was unable to be present to receive the award, which represents recognition of more than 25 years of club work.

Waterhouse joined the Agricultural Extension Service of the College of Agriculture on January 15, 1919. He immediately became interested in club work, and became assistant state leader of 4-H Clubs, in the southern counties of California. During the war he aided in the work of the Agricultural Extension Service in recruiting farm labor. Since that time he has been assistant state leader of Young Extension Co-operators, an organization which bridges the years between childhood club work on the farm and active participation as adults in independent farming operations.

Hundred Percenter Is Guest of Club

Walter Keith Jamison of Ukiah, Calif., revisited Campbell Monday and was a guest of the Campbell Rotary club at luncheon.

Born and reared in Campbell, Mr. Jamison had not been back to his home town for a number of years. He has been a member of Rotary for some 25 years and is a 100-percenter—never having missed a meeting during the quarter century, wherever he might be. He recently timed a 3000-mile trip so as to arrive in time for a meeting here, he said.

How trouble shooters take wing to guard your power supply

They take the sky-way . . . these modern power-patrolmen. Helicopters enable our high-line trouble shooters to find line breaks or make routine checks of transmission facilities much more efficiently than on foot or skis. For the versatile helicopter can hover near a tower for detailed inspection of insulators and equipment . . . land in normally inaccessible areas . . . or dart at 80 miles an hour along the line to spot possible breaks caused by storms or falling trees.

There are 9,000 miles of transmission lines in P.G. and E.'s network to keep helicopters busy. And they have a still bigger job ahead as we expand the system to serve Northern and Central California's growing needs.

From more than a hundred reservoirs and lakes and 74 generating plants comes the electricity to supply this vast network. More plants are on the way, joining P. G. and E.'s post-war power-parade costing over $400,000,000.

Work never stops on our power-building program

P.G. & E. PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

S. J. State Students

Jeanette Keebaugh, Robert Schultz, and Kenneth Peach.

The major award will be a $1000 scholarship to that student among the first prize winners, who, in the opinion of the judges, shows the greatest promise. Other prizes will be $200, $100, and $50 for winners in oils and $150, $100, and $50 for winners in each of the contests in water colors, photography, and pen and ink. Twenty-five honorable mentions of $10 each will also be awarded.

Subject matter must be chosen from California history—historic buildings or ghost towns, portraits of pioneers, landscapes of historic interest, and events important in early state history.

All exhibits which are awarded first place will become the property of the California State Fair. From these prize winners, a permanent collection will be arranged for loan to art galleries and colleges throughout the state.

John B. Matthews, Sacramento Junior College, will be guest director of the gallery at the fair. Members of the jury of judges for the contests are: John W. Caughey, University of California, Los Angeles; Ray Faulkner, Stanford University; and Stephen C. Pepper, University of California, Berkeley.

The California State Fair is sponsoring this, the first of a series of three art contests, to intensify awareness of the lasting heritage of the pioneers of California. Themes for the contests will center around the state's three Centennial years: Discovery of Gold in 1848; the Gold Rush in 1849; and statehood in 1850.
